Impact Report: Front Page

TRAINING £63,032 was spent on Training The Lironi Training Fund was set up thanks to a very generous legacy from Miss Joan Lironi. The fund is used to support those entering the industry plus professional horticulturists who need to complete short courses to gain certification for specific skills needed, or retraining, following accident or illness preventing them from returning to their current or previous employment. As well as training placements at external gardens of horticultural excellence, the Lironi Training Fund has allowed Perennial to establish apprenticeships at Fullers Mill Garden. and as of September 2016, York Gate George Fisk was the apprentice in 2016 at Fullers Mill Garden, and he has now completed his apprenticeship. Fullers Mill Garden Apprentice "My job at Fullers Mill Garden has given me a brilliant insight into the upkeep and running of a public access garden. I have turned my hand to any job I've been given, learning many new skills along the way. I have run open days and worked with our team of volunteers in the garden. I've particularly enjoyed launching the garden's Instagram account over the past 12 months which has helped bring a few more visitors to the garden - it's so important now to be responsive on social media and I've loved being able to share images from the garden on
